I love Mount Street in London. A generation of designers whom I got to know when they were all just starting out have established boutiques in and around this luxury thoroughfare. MARC JACOBS was the first designer to open on Mount Street. Then came BALENCIAGA, CHRISTIAN LOUBOUTIN, and CÉLINE. But the very special aspect of this street is the boutiques that young British designers established. CHRISTOPHER KANE and ROKSANDA ILLINCIC commissioned the architects John Pawson and David Adjaye, respectively, to design retail spaces that are more like galleries than shops. Nearby on South Audley Street, ERDEM designed his own boutique with his partner, Philip Joseph.
